3 What personal data do we process?

‘Personal data’ means any information directly or indirectly relating to an individual or any information that can be used to identify an individual.

Personal data is ‘processed’ when any activity or set of activities is performed on the personal data. This includes the collection, storage, access, use, transfer, disclosure and removal of personal data.

When you apply for a job or position with us, we process the following personal data:

- Your name, address and contact details, including e-mail address and (mobile) telephone number;
- Your gender, date and place of birth;
- Details of your competences, skills, experience and education e.g. your curriculum vitae (CV), employment history, educational details and qualifications, third-party references;
- Your preferences, e.g. preferred country of employment, areas of interest;
- Data generated by your participation in behavior/cognitive assessments. You will receive more information about the nature of such assessments before you participate in any of them;
- Information related to pre-employment screening on integrity and capability, depending on the position you are applying for;
- Your nationality and, if applicable, your entitlement to work in the United Kingdom;
- Your photograph and video recordings (Closed Circuit Television (‘CCTV’) footage) when you visit our offices;
- Information on your social networking and instant messaging accounts (LinkedIn, XING);
- Through cookies, or similar technologies, we may collect, IP address, device type, browser type, language settings, the links you click while using our sites and services, dates and times of connecting a website and other technical communications information.

4 Do we also process special categories of personal data?

Special categories of personal data are considered to be more sensitive. This can be confidential information regarding, for example, a person’s health condition, criminal record or data relating to ethnic or racial origin.

As part of the pre-employment screening process we also check whether you have any criminal history. We consult (directly or via third parties) financial industry incident databases and alert systems in which for example cases of fraud against financial institutions are registered. The purpose of these databases and systems is to protect the interests of financial institutions, our employees and customers. We only process personal data relating to a person’s criminal background when assessing whether or not to hire that person.

5 How do we collect your personal data?

We collect your personal data in the following ways:

- when you visit our 'Working at DLL Group' website (for further details, see cookie statement <https://dllgroup.com/se/en/cookie-statement>);
- if you fill out the application form on our 'Working at DLL Group' website;
- if you send us an application via other means;
- if you choose to turn on the job alert-function on our 'Working at DLL Group' website;
- by searching suitable candidates by means of platforms such as CV databases and professional networking sites;
- via email or telephone;
- during interviews;
- through behavioral/cognitive assessments;
- by performing a pre-employment screening on integrity and capability;
- from third parties (e.g., via a reference from your previous employer or an external (recruitment) agency);
- from affiliates within the Rabobank Group (see Paragraph 8) and;
- when you visit our offices e.g., for an interview via our visitor-registration and if in operation via CCTV.

6 For which purposes and on what legal basis do we process your personal data?

When you apply for a job or position with us, we will ask you to provide us with personal information about yourself so we can evaluate your job application. If this information is not provided, our ability to consider you as a suitable candidate is limited.

By law, every personal data processing activity must have a legal basis. This is a justifiable reason to process your personal data. For most processing activities through the job application process we rely on 'legitimate interest' as the legal basis. However, in some cases we are under a legal obligation to process your personal data.

Prior to the processing of personal data, we will define the purpose(s) of the processing and will not process personal data in a manner which is not compatible with those purposes. The table below shows the processing purposes, categories of personal data involved and on what legal basis we rely:

Recruitment, selection, evaluation and appointment of job candidates (temporary and permanent) for the job you have applied for and for subsequent job opportunities.

Categories of personal data:

- Where needed, we will obtain your consent (e.g. for profiling for job searches).

Where we indicated we have a legitimate interest for processing, we take into regard that our legitimate interest does not override your fundamental rights and freedoms.

Once you have acquired a position at DLL or AGCO Finance, the collected personal data will be processed by our Human Resources department in the personnel file, in accordance with our Privacy Statement for Members.

7 How do we handle and secure your personal data?

Only personnel who require access for the purpose of considering your job application at DLL or AGCO Finance will process your personal data. All our personnel are bound by a duty of confidentiality.

We are committed to keep your personal data secure. To prevent unauthorised access or disclosure, we have taken technical, physical and organisational measures to safeguard and secure your personal data. These security measures are aimed at preventing your personal data from being used illegitimately or fraudulently. In particular, we use security measures to ensure the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of your data as well as the resilience of the systems and services that process them and the ability to restore data in the event of a data breach. Where possible, we aim to secure your personal data using pseudonymisation or encryption measures. In addition, we test, verify and regularly evaluate the effectiveness of our technical and organisational measures in order to ensure continuous improvement in the security of processing personal data.

Generally, we will process your personal data for the purposes for which these were originally collected. Personal data may also be processed for a legitimate business purpose different from the original purpose (secondary purpose), but only if the secondary purpose corresponds to the original purpose. For example, you apply for a position that in the end does not suit you, but when we think you are suitable for another/similar position, we might include you in the procedure for the other/similar position.

8 Do we transfer your personal data to other parties and/or to other countries?

a. Within the Group

We are subsidiaries of De Lage Landen International B.V., which is a wholly owned subsidiary of Coöperatieve Rabobank U.A. ('Rabobank' and together with its subsidiaries, the ('Group')).

Your personal data may be shared within the Group for legitimate purposes, when those entities comply with the rules of Rabobank described in the Rabobank Privacy Code for Employee Data. This Rabobank Privacy Code describes the requirements that all Group entities worldwide must meet and guarantee an appropriate level of protection of personal data and serve as the Binding Corporate Rules of the Group.

For instance, the Global Talent Acquisition Team of De Lage Landen International B.V. has access to personal data of job applicants worldwide.

b. Outside the Group

If we are legally obliged to do so, we transfer your personal data to third parties. For example, to supervisory authorities.

We also engage third parties for processing personal data on our instructions in connection with the purpose for which we collected your personal data. For example, we involve third parties to perform the behavioral/cognitive assessment and pre-employment screening.

The third parties that support us in providing our recruitment services or store personal data for us must first be deemed sufficiently reliable from a privacy and data protection perspective. We only engage third parties if this fits the purposes for which we process your personal data. In addition, these third parties can only be involved if they enter into proper contracts with us, have implemented appropriate security measures and guarantee that your personal data will remain confidential.

If we transfer your personal data to third parties outside the European Union ('Europe'), we take extra measures to protect your personal data. In some countries outside the European Union, the rules for privacy and protecting your personal data are different from those that apply within Europe. If we transfer your personal data to third parties outside Europe and the European Commission determined that the country in which this third party is located does not offer adequate protection in the area of processing personal data, we will only transfer your personal data if other approved safeguards are in place, such as the Standard Contractual Clauses ('EU Model Clauses') approved by the European Commission.

If we transfer your personal data to third parties located in a country which is deemed not to provide an adequate level of data protection, we take extra measures to protect your personal data.

9 How long do we store your personal data?

We do not store your personal data longer than we need to for the purposes for which we have collected it. In addition, we take applicable law and regulations into account when your personal data is stored which means that we can use different storage periods. For example, if the supervisory authority requires us to store certain personal data longer or if you have filed a complaint that makes it necessary to keep the underlying personal data for a longer period.

We will delete personal data at an earlier time if you request us to delete your personal data, unless another law prevails. In certain cases, we may use different retention periods. For example, if a supervisory authority requires us to store certain personal data longer, if you have filed a complaint that makes it necessary to keep the underlying personal data for a longer period, or in specific cases for archiving, legal proceedings, or for historical, scientific research or statistical purposes.

10 Which rights can you exercise?

a. Right to access and rectification

You can ask us to access your personal data processed by us. Should you believe that your personal data is incorrect or incomplete, you can ask us to rectify or supplement your personal data.

b. Right to erasure (right to be forgotten)

You can ask us to erase your personal data as processed by us. If we do not have any legal obligations or legitimate business reasons to retain your personal data, we will execute your request.

c. Right to restrict personal data

You can ask us to limit the personal data processed by us. We may refuse a restriction request if we have a lawful reason to continue the processing of the personal data (e.g. the exercise of a contract, a legal archiving duty, or the establishment, exercise or defense of legal claims).

d. Right to data portability

You have the right to ask us to receive the personal data that you provided to us in a structured and machine readable format or to transfer your personal data to a third party. Transfer of personal data directly to a third party can only be done if it is technically possible.

e. Right to object

You have the right to object if we process your personal data. If you object to processing, we will determine whether your personal data can indeed no longer be used for those purposes. We can then decide to cease the processing of your personal data. We will inform you about our decisions and motivations.

f. Right to withdraw consent

If you have given your consent to us for specific processing of your personal data, you can at any time withdraw your consent. From that moment, we are no longer allowed to process your personal data.

11 How to contact us in case of a request, question or complaint?

For questions related to this Privacy Statement or if you want to exercise your rights, please contact our local privacy officer or local compliance officer via: compliance.uk@dllgroup.com

We will respond within one month after we have received your request. In specific cases, we are allowed to extend this period with another 2 months. In order to process your request, we will request you to provide sufficient information to identify you. We may also ask that you further specify your request.

We will do our best to handle your request, question or complaint in a timely and appropriate fashion.

If you feel we did not handle your request, question or complaint timely or appropriately, you can also contact the DLL Group Data Protection Officer via: privacyoffice@dllgroup.com.

If you still feel we did not handle your request, question or complaint timely or appropriately, you can also contact your local Data Protection Authority. You can find the contact details of your local Data Protection Authority below:
